Liz guides companies with complex energy issues, including oil and gas, mining, renewable energy, and data center developers with sophisticated commercial operations, substantial energy supply needs, and infrastructure development projects.

Clients rely on Liz for strategic counsel to secure the energy resources and infrastructure essential for large-scale operations. They appreciate her practical, business-minded approach that balances compliance requirements with commercial realities to optimize value and mitigate risk.

Liz counsels energy companies, mining companies, natural and renewable gas producers and consumers, and investors on complex transactions, including asset acquisitions and divestitures, royalty agreements, joint ventures, infrastructure development, gas purchase, sale, trading, and transportation, and purchase and sale of environmental attributes and credits. She brings specialized expertise navigating transactions and projects involving federal and tribal lands, upstream and midstream development, royalty-related considerations, and regulatory and environmental issues.

She has extensive experience supporting data centers and independent power production projects by securing the natural gas supply contracts and transportation agreements needed to power energy-intensive infrastructure.

Liz co-leads both the firm's Oil and Gas and Data Center industry groups, bringing deep expertise and market insights to clients navigating two of the most dynamic areas in today's energy economy.

Liz also chairs the firm's Diversity and Inclusion Committee, leading efforts that foster inclusion and equity throughout the firm and initiatives that create pathways for professional growth and success for all attorneys.

Before joining Holland & Hart, Liz was a partner in the Denver office of an Am Law 100 firm.
