Amaris advises clients across a range of real estate transactions, helping them develop informed legal strategies that assist in advancing their business objectives. She supports clients in facilitating cross-border transactions, drafting real estate contracts, conducting land use research, and performing comprehensive due diligence, including for renewable energy projects.

During law school, Amaris served as a judicial intern for Associate Chief Justice John A. Pearce of the Utah Supreme Court and Senior Judge Ted Stewart of the US District Court for the District of Utah. She is fluent in Samoan and proficient in Spanish.

Before pursuing a career in law, Amaris worked in the field of education as an educator with the Compton Unified School District and as Director of Student Success and Diversity at the University of Utah.
