Brady brings comprehensive intellectual property expertise to clients, with particular strength in trademark law.

Brady provides strategic trademark and brand management counsel to assist clients in navigating the intricate landscape of intellectual property law while focusing on their core business objectives. His practice encompasses the full spectrum of protection and enforcement, from trademark clearance and prosecution to representing clients in Trademark Trial and Appeal Board (TTAB) and Uniform Domain Name Dispute Resolution Policy (UDRP) proceedings. Brady's experience in trademark, copyright, and patent litigation in federal district court, positions him well to effectively handle complex IP matters and provide nuanced counsel.

Prior to joining Holland & Hart, Brady practiced at an Am Law 200 firm in Las Vegas. During law school, he served as a Judicial Extern to Judge Gloria M. Navarro of the US District Court for the District of Nevada.
