Tim is a registered patent attorney and electrical engineer who focuses on a comprehensive range of intellectual property matters, including patents, trademarks, copyright, and trade secrets.

Leveraging his technical experience, Tim provides strategic patent counsel, including preparation and prosecution, portfolio management, opinions, and enforcement. He serves clients across diverse sectors including software, electronics, aerospace, medical devices, and manufacturing, bringing particular depth in artificial intelligence, financial technology, computer architecture, embedded systems, and signal processing.

Tim also assists clients with trademark strategy, registration, portfolio management, and enforcement, helping businesses protect their brand assets and navigate disputes. He provides counsel on various IP matters including copyright issues, trade secret protection, and confidentiality agreements.

Tim started with Holland & Hart in Las Vegas, working as a Patent Agent for two years and participating in the firm's Summer Clerk Program before joining as an Associate in the Denver office. He maintains strong ties to Nevada's technology sector and continues to serve clients throughout the region.
